Museums

The University of Alberta Museums is a unique model of 28 diverse museum collections housed in departments across campus from art and archeology to paleontology and zoology. The collections are used daily to promote learning, fuel discovery and advance knowledge through teaching, research, and community outreach. Approximately 5000 students register annually in courses that use collections as primary sources, and faculty are engaged in hundreds of research projects that build new knowledge through object-based research.

The Friends of the University of Alberta Museums was established in 1984 as a non-profit society dedicated to raising awareness of the University of Alberta Museums. The Friends conduct fundraising and promotional activities, provide volunteer support, and sponsor a range of programs that provide community access to the collections. Funding for this comes largely from casinos operated under the Alberta Gaming and Liquor Commission. Funds are used for the University of Alberta Museums' programs and projects, and membership fees and donations cover operations. The benefits to members are listed below.

Internship Program

In December 2009, the Friends Board of Directors approved funding to help the University of Alberta create an internship in Museum Innovation. We encourage you to donate to this significant project to provide future interns with the opportunity to pursue their passions and careers, and take their achievements out into the world.

Benefits of membership

- Direct-mail copies of Friends, a newsletter about the University of Alberta Museums and the Friends' activities
- Friends-only behind-the-scenes events, tours, and lectures
- Direct-mail notices of upcoming events
- A network of dedicated volunteers and museum enthusiasts
- The opportunity to support the University of Alberta Museums' role in teaching and research activities on campus and in the community

The generosity of our donors has a direct impact on our University of Alberta Museums community, providing the funds necessary to build on a foundation of excellence and the talent to achieve it. Thank you.
